

Occupational Health Clinics

The Occupational Health Clinics offer services and programs that will promote general health and welfare. Operated by the Office of Human Capital Management's Wellness Program, the occupational health services for federal employees include:

- Walk-in and first-aid services for non-life threatening injuries and illnesses
- Quarterly health seminars and blood drives
- Lactation Services for nursing mothers
- Physician directed services, such as allergy injections and blood pressure monitoring
- Influenza vaccinations
- Immunizations and medical determinations for international travel and overseas reassignments
- Medical surveillance, including participation in the programs of beryllium exposure and worker protection
- First-response provides emergency treatment to any employee, contractor or visitor needing immediate care.

Business hours:

Monday – Thursday, 8:00 am – 4:00 pm; 4:00 – 4:30 pm Emergencies.

Friday: No Walk-in services. Open for Emergencies only.

Germantown Clinic closed from 12:30 - 1:30 daily for lunch.

Forrestal Clinic, Room GG-028

(202) 586-9765

(202) 586-1862 Fax

HealthUnitFORS@hq.doe.gov

Germantown, Room A-075

(301) 903-4275

(301) 903-0179

HealthUnitGTN@hq.doe.gov